The President's Letter

" January 1993 - my first anniversary of taking up the appointment of Principal of KGV. How different it felt driving in this first year without the L plates of a first day Principal.

The support I have had from individuals has been outstanding and the strength of goodwill from the Old Georgians, the College staff and the people of Southport generally has taken me by storm. Thank you. It is so hard to follow in the footsteps of those predecessors who have helped to make KGV the centre of excellence it is today. Sitting next to Geoffrey Dixon at the Annual Dinner last Maundy Thursday was so enlightening, interesting and, to be honest, such fun. I still meet David Arnold at Sixth Form College Principals' Meetings and Geraldine Evans occasionally attends College events.

The Further and Higher Education Act of which I spoke last year has taken up much of our time this year. The College will be independent of the LEA from 1st April. Of course this brings us fantastic opportunities to spread our wings - but the climate of the new culture and complex funding mechanisms in the world of FE is worrying. The rules are designed to cover over 400 Colleges nation-wide and the diversity in the sector is very great. King George V College is small by comparison with many. We have worked hard to ensure our voice is heard and will continue to keep the quality of education we give our students at the forefront of our mission. The publication of exam results nation-wide showed KGV to be in the top five sixth form colleges in the country. We will work very hard to stay there.

The pressure from the new Further Education Funding Council is to expand. Targets of 8% growth with 5% funding and 3% efficiency gain are standard. How very fortunate I am to have such a talented group of Governors, three of whom are Old Georgians. Their financial expertise and business acumen are invaluable. We have had to submit detailed plans and costings. Ideally we would like to put up some new buildings, but budgets are tight.

We are planning a major Friends of the College initiative to encourage people to use their talents and interests to support curriculum areas of the College and attend College events. We will also try to raise money for major new projects such as a technology centre and lecture theatres named after those who offer their support.

All of the extra pressures this year have taken up much time, but the best hours of the week are those when I am able to teach a class or take a year meeting. The students are the centre of the College, the raison d'être - as you were then - so they are now. They deserve the best. The Governors, the staff and I are determined that they shall get it."

Hilary Anslow

The Chairman's Letter

" I am not sure whether the greater privilege is to occupy the chair or to be allowed space in the Red Rose but I do welcome the opportunity to say 'hello' to my fellow Georgians. It is an opportunity for each of us to re-establish contact with our predecessors, contemporaries and successors alike; do grasp it.

The common experience of successive Chairmen is wonderment and I am no exception. The enthusiasm and dedication of your committee is of the highest order and, on your behalf, I would like to express sincere thanks for all that they do in your name: a particular 'Thank You' for the enormous effort put in by our secretary, John Pilling. Our last twelve months have had their highlights and low spots, but, thankfully, I can say that the former outweigh the latter. By the time this publication goes to print we shall hope to have enjoyed the resumption of the Chairman's Weekend although there will have been two breaks with tradition (our lifeblood!). Those attending will not have had their breakfasts cooked by the Chairman and the event will have been focused on the Peak District rather than the Lake District.

During the last year our project was a contribution to the College which has resulted in some quite exquisite binding of the traditional 'Red Rose' volumes and I am hopeful that they may be on display at the Annual Dinner along with the usual photographic memorabilia. As a further contribution, Old Georgians have also involved themselves in certain of the activities of the College and have been able to return some of their talents to the benefit of today's students.

We have been delighted to see our new Principal and President, Mrs Hilary Anslow, settle in so happily at Southport and I know you would want me to express our good wishes for the traumatic year she and her staff are about to undergo. Her support of the Old Georgians has been a source of much encouragement to all of us on the Committee.

Finally, can I make a plea to your collective involvement in the activities of the Old Georgians? Unless we succeed in becoming more representative we run a risk of operating in a vacuum. Can you spare a little time (say four or five evenings a year) to join the Committee and reduce its average age? (That in itself must be a worthwhile objective!)

With every good wish; I shall hope to see you at the Dinner".

Eric Ogden

The Editor's Welcome

Hello again to the Old Georgians Association Newsletter, 'The Red Rose'.

This is the second edition which I have had the pleasure to compile and edit on behalf of the Association Committee and I would like to thank them for their help in collating the information contained within. I would also like to thank you, the Association members, for your contributions as well, for without these the skeleton would be there, but with very little flesh on it.

You will already have read our President's letter, this being the first full year of her 'ruling the roost' at the College. I trust you found her comments and observations of interest.

For you 'oldies' of pre 1978, I hope you have noticed the article on page 11. I take great pleasure in thanking Geoffrey Dixon for this contribution.

It is important you take note of the message in the box below. If you do not send either the postcard or the insert back to the College, then you will not receive a Red Rose next year.

Finally, should you have any information you wish to pass on, or requests you would like to air via the Notice Board, see page 15, please write to me, The Red Rose Editor, c/o Roger Mitchell, at the College - AT ANY TIME.

Thank you and until next year.....au revoir.

Jon Elliott

IMPORTANT NOTICE

Membership of the Old Georgians' Association continues to expand and each year we send out well over 1500 copies of the newsletter. We use the most up-to-date address that we have in our records, but even so, a significant number can not be successfully delivered. The cost to the Association is considerable and so this year we have decided to send all newsletters by post and to ASK ALL MEMBERS WHO WISH TO RECEIVE FUTURE COPIES OF THE NEWSLETTER TO RETURN THE ENCLOSED POSTCARD. Alternatively, please complete the same information on the first side of the insert and then complete the reverse with any updated information about yourself and return this to the address shown. This will enable us to update our address list and we hope to publish this in the 1994 newsletter. It is also hoped that this process will prevent future embarrassment to the OGA with regard to correspondence being sent to members who are deceased or who no longer wish to be contacted.

Members who do not reply will of course remain full members of the Association, and as soon as we have an up-to-date address, will go back on to our mailing list. We would be delighted to hear from members with whom we have lost contact.

Former KGV students who left the College in 1990, 1991 or 1992 will remain on the mailing list and should only contact us if their address has changed.

We intend to update the mailing list in this way approximately every five years.

The editor invited Mr. Geoffrey Dixon, former Headmaster of King George Fifth Grammar School, to contribute an article to this years Red Rose. The editor would like to thank Mr. Dixon for his response and the following memory from the 1960's.

"I forget the year, but it was the early 1960's. As seems to be perpetually the case, the Government was in trouble. To save fuel it had been decreed that 'summer time' would last the whole year through. As a result school started while it was still completely dark in those January days. To compound our difficulties the electricians at the power stations were on strike. There was a scheme in force by which each area of the town had its electricity cut off for a few hours each day. For the first few days of the strike all went well because our electricity was only cut off in the afternoons. But the day came when we were told it would not be turned on until 11 a.m. in the morning. One of my many weaknesses is that I hate being pushed around. Short of an earthquake, no school should be shut. So I took the decision to open as usual at 8.50 that morning.

When I reached school that morning my heart began to fail. There was no moon. It was overcast and completely dark. But there was no turning back now. I asked the Prefects to direct everyone to the assembly hall when they arrived and at 8.50 promptly I stepped on to the platform. It was a weird sensation. We might have been at the bottom of a mine it was so dark. I could not see anything at all even of the front row. I had no torch, indeed it would have been a mistake to use one. To have flashed it around would have been to encourage fooling about. As it was there was none. There could have been riots, cat calls, rotten eggs and all manners of foolery. Resisting the temptation to call for the hymn 'Lead Kindly Light', I asked the school to go to their rooms for the first period and the staff would give them aural work until it was light enough to see. The school filed out of the hall in almost complete silence and lessons started promptly. As far as I remember there were no more than the usual number of absentees that day.

I received not a single complaint about this outrageous affair from any boy nor from any parent. The only difficulty I had to deal with was an attempted revolt in the Staff Room. A few members thought it would have been a good idea to have a morning off work. This was brought up at a staff room meeting, but the Deputy Head, Joe Edwards, than whom no more loyal colleague existed, had quelled the revolt before I even arrived at the meeting, so we had no further trouble.

I do not know whether I would have had the face to do this again but, fortunately, I was not put to the test because the electricians gave in before I did! There were many occasions during my 27 years when I felt very proud of the boys at KGV, but never more so than on that cold January morning so many years ago when we had 'Night School'."

Forthcoming Events

The College Theatrical Production - week commencing 26th April 1993

This years College production was not announced at the time of going to press, but following last years great success it is a recommended item for your diary. Attendance is welcome to all members, family and friends.

Chairman's Weekend - 20-21 March 1993

See the Chairman's letter for other references, but it is being held in the Peak District this year.

College Concert - Tuesday 30th March 1993

The first of the seasons concerts from the College orchestra. Though the members have changed since last year, the quality and talent has been maintained in the membership. At the time of going to press the evenings programme was not available, but details can be obtained by contacting the College.

Annual Dinner - 8th April 1993

Please see page 19 for further details and please note the returnable insert to order tickets.

College Concert - Tuesday 18th May 1993

The second of the seasons concerts from the College orchestra. Those attending the Autumn Soirees will know of the fantastic level of talent present in the College orchestra which is bound to make this a thoroughly enjoyable evening.

"Marketing Yourself" - 20th July 1993

Final date to be announced. Anyone wishing to assist should contact the Association secretary in June.

Autumn Soiree - 19th November 1993

Please note this date as the last two events have sold and gone extremely well. The committee hope to hold the price to that of the previous two years, which will this include a buffet and bar. The evening is open to Association members, partners, friends and family. For further information, please complete the section on the insert. An accompanying s.a.e. would be appreciated, though not compulsory.

Careers Evening - November 1993

The annual event held at the College to assist and advise the students on possible career paths. Anyone wishing to attend should contact the Association secretary by the end of October please.

Leavers Reunion - T.B.A.

Obituaries

It is with regret that the Committee wishes to pass on the following information about the deaths of several Old Georgians..

Alan Bason (d. 20 September 1991)

Alan Bason's wife, Margaret, kindly wrote to the Secretary last year to sadly inform him of her husband's death in September of 1991. Alan died, aged sixty, following a long and courageous fight against multiple sclerosis. Should anyone wish to contact Mrs.Bason, please write to the O.G.A. Secretary who will forward all correspondence.

Allan Cotterill (b. 23 March 1913, d. 3 November 1991)

Allan Cotterill's granddaughter has kindly written to the Secretary informing him of her grandfathers death. She is not certain when Allan attended the school, but following his time at K.G.V. he graduated from Liverpool University and went on to teach Art at Kent College in Canterbury. He continued his career at Carmarthen College of Art and finally at Cardiff College of Art. His career was broken briefly by the S.W.W. when he became a Major in the R.A.O.C. He later owned a lingerie and hosiery shop on Lord Street, Southport, called Formstone & Cotterill.

A.J. Lawson (d. 4 December 1990)

Mr. Lawson attended KGV from 1956 to 1961. His widow has written to inform us of his death.

NOTICEBOARD

The Notice Board is here for everyone's use. If you have any requests for next year please write to the editor, c/o KGV College.

Does anyone have any photographs of the interior or exterior of the old school buildings? If so, the editor would like to hear from you. Please write to 'The Editor, The Old Georgians Newsletter, C/O KGV College etc...'

L.B. Davies (see News of Old Georgians) would like to hear from any of his old pals from school (1955-63). If you would like to contact him, please write to The Editor at KGV and your correspondence will be forwarded to him.

EARLY GEORGIANS, PART TWO by S.B.Rimmer.

Following on from last years' extract from the K.G.V. scouts notebook from the 1920's, Stan Rimmer has offered this poem written by P.H.Woodham, recalling the Summer Camp of 1929 at Nibthwaite.

The Lions Den

We raised the tent right up at last,
Against its weight we fought,
Until we saw the pole, alas !
'Twas quite six inches short !

So we went foraging afar,
And different stones we found,
Which we put underneath the pole,
To raise it off the ground.

We pulled on ropes, we tightened guys,
We ran this way and that,
We dared not touch the pole at all,
For fear it should fall flat !

We got the pole upright at last,
The tent's weight it could bear,
Thank goodness there's a Summer Camp,
But once in every year !
