The Editor's Welcome

Hello again.....

This was going to be a short intro to this years issue, but it seems to have grown and grown. Many thanks to all involved for their efforts, they know who they are - please keep up the good work.

The '95 issue is a little different and I am trying to make it more pro-active for yourselves - hence items such as the '1995 Challenge'. It has been interesting that a large proportion of the correspondence this year has revolved around the "I didn't receive my Newsletter this year" statement. Sheila Curran has had a difficult job in keeping up with you all - especially those who were told they MUST return their '93 slips, but didn't !!! Hint, hint. We can only send it if you keep us informed of your address ! Please be aware, the exercise to manage the mail list will happen again in a couple of years so please make sure that you return your information slips when it does. My thanks to Baggers who has designed this years cover !

SUPPORT !

Surgical ?, structural ?, moral ?..... well all three really - where were those swelling crowds backing our lads against the College cricket team last year ? Thanks have been extended to those who made the effort and had an enjoyable afternoon - but what about the crowds, the mexican waves. Please, if you can, come along to this years match. Its a great experience and a good get together.

And ladies - what about you ? This year you were your own worst enemy. There it was, last years Chairmans invitation to take up a more prominent role in both the management and social side of the Association, and what happened ? Yes, I'm still looking for an answer.....

Snooker and cricket may not be up your street, but why not ? Suggest some things that are, let's get some commitment to the hockey match this year and hammer the College team into the back of their net!

Come on folks, especially those who say 'what would I get out of it ?'. Now that you have joined help make the Association work for you. You can be as involved as you want, but let's do more than meet on Maundy Thursday. You made the effort to join so lets put that effort to good use !!!!! So much for the short intro !

Just a quick note to follow on from last year. Martin Fearn (Spencers, '73 to '79) has gratefully accepted the nomination of the O.G.A. Committee for the position of Chairman, 1995 to 1996. The voting for this position, along with the President, Secretary etc, will take place at the A.G.M. immediately preceding the dinner on April 13th. Any other nominations are welcome.

See you on the cricket square.....

Ed.

The President's Letter

"Dear Georgians

Is it really only one year since I last wrote to you ? We have achieved much in that time. I am pleased to report to you that the College goes from strength to strength and continues to maintain the proud tradition of quality education at King George V on a local and national basis.

'King George V College has a well deserved reputation for academic excellence. Students receive strong support and guidance, teaching is well organised and effective.'

These points were made by Inspectors in their report published nationally in 1994. In August, our exam results at A level, 92% pass rate and Advanced GNVQ 100% pass rate, provided further evidence of outstanding achievement. The national College League Tables for A levels kept us in the top five for the second year running.

In September, we welcomed more students to the College than ever before, reaching a total of 870 and I was still unable to satisfy demand. We had to turn away 50 well qualified young people.

With full Governor support, this year I pushed ahead with ambitious plans for a prestigious new development at the front of the College providing a new state of the art learning resource centre/library and several new teaching spaces in the new development and refurbishment of the existing library space.

We now have full planning permission, but the College cannot provide all the necessary finance which will be in excess of £1.5 million. We are working hard to gain financial support from the Funding Council and we have ascertained the amount we can borrow from the banks and the interest payable. The Council are helpful, but they are too uncertain about funds.

I must be optimistic. We need and deserve this important new facility. I will do all in my power to bring it about. Any support from former members of the school and college would be greatly appreciated. Already one of your number has presented the College with a cheque to commemorate the fact that it is 50 years since he first set foot in King George V School. I am grateful. The money will be used to help future generations in equipping the new centre and will be publicly acknowledged with a plaque.

One of my happiest memories since I last wrote to you was receiving Nancy Dixon's oil painting of King George V School and rehanging it with pride in the College. I hope, next year, to be able to describe one of my happiest moments as the completion of the new building. I look forward to being able to write and invite you to the Opening. This is the next challenge.

As you know, in the spirit of the school from which we have grown, I am not one to flinch from a challenge.

With warm regards,

Hilary Anslow

The Chairman's Letter

Dear Georgians

After decades of relative inactivity in KGV affairs mainly occasioned by the fact that I have been so busy, I recently found myself both a Governor of the College and Chairman of the Old Georgians Association.

Being Chairman of the "Old Georgians" has been both a delight and a privilege meeting again people from long, long ago and bringing back so many memories. It also enabled me to discover how much work is done by your Committee, especially by your Honorary Secretary, John Pilling, Honorary Treasurer, Allen Chandler, and that most enthusiastic organiser of most things - Stan Rimmer - my grateful thanks to them all. Jonathan Elliott organised the Cricket Match against the school and Stan Rimmer organised a most successful snooker evening. Thank you and thank you again.

The highlight of the year as far as I was concerned was the Chairman's Weekend at the Hare and Hounds at Bowland Bridge. Paul Bagshaw has reported on this at length in his own inimitable style; you will quickly realise that this was a most up-market and posh occasion.

One of the most pleasant duties I had to perform was to present to Keith Matthews on behalf of the Old Georgians a cheque to buy microphones, just one item from a long list of badly needed equipment for the Music Department. Having attended several of the Musical Evenings at College, I never cease to be amazed at the exceptionally high quality of the musical renderings and the very wide spectrum that is covered.

When the College acquired Corporate status and became part of the Further Education Sector in April 1993 I was appointed a Governor, and what a shock to the system that proved to be. Having been brought up in the era of doing calculations on the back of a fag packet if you couldn't do them in your head, I was thrust towards the 21st Century at a terrific rate of knots. I must pay tribute to the Chairmen of the various Committees that I have sat on, but especially to Hilary Anslow and her key staff - the skills that they have shown in dealing with the welter of bureaucratic legislation have left me completely spellbound. I extend to them all my congratulations and best wishes for the future, for, having reached the age of 70 this weekend, my Governorship has come to an end.

By the time you receive next year's newsletter we expect the new Library/Learning Resource Centre will be nearing completion. This will be a major event in the history of the College and will be a splendid way to celebrate the seventieth anniversary of KGV's move to the Scarisbrick New Road site. I am sure that we will want to mark this event by helping to equip the new building with the best possible resources. The Committee has already started to consider how this can best be done and I am sure that you will be hearing more from my successor in due course. 1996 will certainly be a year in which you will be invited back to KGV, but in the meantime I look forward to seeing you at the annual dinner on Maundy Thursday.

Building Development

During the Summer months of 1994, several projects were completed. These included the completion of a Portakabin Complex, a recording studio, a media studies room, a new Vice-Principal's office and roof replacement for the central and western blocks. New lighting and windows have also been installed in the sports hall, which, together with a new carpet, make it an excellent examination facility.

Progress has also been made regarding the plans for a new library/resource centre to be built at the front of the College.

O.G.A. College Project

The O.G.A. Committee allocates a certain amount of money each year towards a recognised project that will benefit both the College and the students. Previous donations have gone to projects such as binding back issues of the School Red Rose magazine and the photo-portraits of past School and College Principals/Head-Masters.

In 93-94, the O.G.A. donated money to supply lighting for the new display cabinet in the foyer of the College. This area had been re-developed and the cabinet supplied, but no internal lighting was fitted. The cabinet is now illuminated with internal spot lights and enhances the foyer area of the College.

For 94-95, the O.G.A. presented a cheque to the Music Department which was put towards buying two microphone stands and an electronic interface to the departments PC.

Obituaries

It is with regret that the Committee wishes to pass on the following information about the deaths of two Old Georgians.

Rober Guest (d. 1994)

After forty years as a dispensing chemist, Robert retired in 1987. He was in Rogers House from 1940 to 1944. The O.G.A. have heard in-directly of his death towards the end of last year.

Peter J. Richardson (b. 1936 - d. February 1995)

Peter Richardson died suddenly on February 10th of a heart attack. Peter was, up to his death, an Assistant Vice-Principal, one of three such positions at the College. He had previously been the Head of Physics, having joined the staff in 1964. He was also one of the most approachable and respected members of staff the School and College had ever had. I write this as a student of his for two years leading to my 'O' level exam, and therefore appreciate how much he will be missed at the College. This sad news has been passed to us as we go to press, therefore a full obituary to Peter will be published in next years Red Rose. Our sympathy go out to his widow, Mary, and son, Alistair, who is currently a student at the College. - Ed

Alison Thompson (b. 1972 - d. 1994)

Alison attended K.G.V. College from 1988 to 1990. She sadly died in October 1994 aged 22, from cancer. She was in her third year at Queen Margaret College in Edinburgh studying for a B.A. in Communication Studies.

George Wakefield (d. October 1994)

A full entry on George Wakefield follows this section.

The Old Boys (Re-)Match !!

Following on from the 1994 victory, a representative O.G.A. team took the field at the College one pleasant afternoon last May. Support from the boundaries was once again present and welcome (lets have more of you this year !). The team comprised Jonathan Elliott, Mark Day, Dave Marshall, Chris Threlfall, Steve Bond, Keith Ball, Nick Catterall, Chris Parkinson and John Gregory, on loan from the College. The College also provided two fielders.

Following last years drubbing, the College were more determined not to under-estimate the O.G.A. team, if not to win - tactics will be explained.

The College team opened the batting and their opening pair had produced a stance of 23 runs before Keith Ball had the first opener out LBW. The College moved on to 55 for 4 and then 81 for 6, before they went on to make 147 for 8 from their 30 overs. Keith ended up with 4 for 16, Chris Threlfall with 3 for 9, 1 for 19 with Steve Bond, Chris Parkinson, John Gregory and Mark Day contributing the other overs bowled. Jon Elliott kept wicket.

Tea was taken where the O.G.A. tactics were discussed - namely (win, lose or draw) everyone was to meet at the Richmond afterwards !

The opening batsmen, messrs Ball and Bond took to the field and produced a fine first wicket stance of 8 in 3 overs when Steve Bond slipped and was unfortunately run out. John Gregory then joined Keith and lasted until the eighth over when he was caught behind. Chris Threlfall did not show the same prowess with the bat as he did with the ball, say no more, and Nick Catterall joined Keith at the wicket. Together they built a fourth wicket partnership of 66 before Keith was bowled for 62. Nick followed two balls later for 19. Jon Elliott came in for Keith, with Parki in for Nick. The College then brought in their own tactical manoeuvre, which was to bowl off-line and to drop anything that looked like a catch. Unfortunately for them, the O.G.A. Captain overheard this tactic and decided the best option was to not play at any ball delivered to him. Questions were soon asked by the umpires, the tactical plan explained and it was decided to field and bat to the best of everyone's ability. Jon Elliott then rattled off a quick 11 before the ball quickly rattled off his middle stump. Parki made 2 and was then bowled. Mash came in to score a single before being caught off an excellent ball. This then left Mark Day at the crease together with the return of the experienced O.G.A. batsman Keith Ball. Mark made 11 and Keith a single before the over ran out, with the O.G.A. team on 125 for 8, 23 runs short of the target !.

Applause rippled around the ground, well at least around the kit bag, and the winners trophy was presented to the College team Captain. The trophy in question was the old school Jubilee Cup. This had been residing in the back of a cabinet for several years and it was decided that this trophy in particular, given its importance to the old school, should be used as the annual trophy to be played for between the College and the O.G.A. team.

Thanks also to Johnny Ball and Tommy Dutton for their enthusiastic and unbounded umpiring on the day.

Snooker Loopy

The second annual (hopefully) snooker evening took place at the S&B Cricket Club in November 1994. A great evening was had by all where thirty two budding Stephen Hendrys (or John Pullmans in some cases) gathered to play out a tantalising singles competition. Such was the quality of the play that, unlike last year, matches had to be won rather than lost on fouls, and hence each went the distance. This had the side effect of time running out and not permitting the doubles contest to take place, but this was far over come by the standard of play attained. The eventual winner was the assistant organiser, Tony Milner. The O.G.A. would like to express thanks to Stan Rimmer for his organising skills.

Careers Evening - November 1995

In a most useful and gratifying exercise, Old Georgians are invited to attend the evening to present, discuss and debate careers, jobs etc with the present College students. The evening is aimed at assisting the students in gaining an appreciation of the real world from those of us already out there. Details available from Roger Mitchell at the College.

George Wakefield

George Wakefield attended KGV in the 1930's, leaving in 1939 to read English at Liverpool University. His schooldays were commemorated for many years in the photographs of school plays which were displayed in the corridors. His university studies were interrupted by the war. He was taken prisoner in Sicily in 1943, suffering from a badly injured knee which left him lame for the rest of his life. He was later transferred to Silesia where he remained for eighteen months. His experience as a prisoner left his spirit undimmed.

In 1945 he joined the staff of KGV as a junior English master and immediately made his mark as the producer of the annual school play. His productions reached almost professional perfection and he inspired performances in his schoolboy actors, in both male and female parts, of truly astonishing power. Perhaps his outstanding success was "Hamlet" in 1952. The difficult duel scene in the last act quite surpassed in realism that of a West end production of a year or two earlier. His versatility was shown by the almost equally successful "Toad of Toad Hall" in the following year. Altogether he produced about 15 plays all of which were quite above anything one would expect to find from a school cast.

In 1950, A.W. Payne, who had been Head of the English Department for many years, took early retirement. I had no hesitation in recommending to the Governors that George should take his place. This appointment raised eyebrows that so young a man should be given such a senior job, but it was the first, and arguably the most successful, appointment of the young generation of new heads of department which was to follow.

He guided the English Department for some twenty years. It is the key department in any school, and George made it into a highly successful and happy unit. His own outstanding teaching ability and commitment were an inspiration to others who worked with him, and to the school as a whole.

In 1969 he became Deputy Head. His ability and enthusiasm were now transferred to a wider field. His wise and calm advice and, above all friendliness, won him universal respect and the School flourished accordingly.

I have no doubt that George would have made a most successful Headmaster. It is King George V School's great good fortune that he chose to remain with us throughout his career.

He enjoyed his retirement to the full and became a talented and successful water colour artist. His sudden death last October leaves a sad gap in the lives of all who had the privilege of knowing and working with him.

Alan Lessiter

Alan Lessiter was one of a group of young school masters recruited by George Millward during the middle and late 20s. It was through the efforts of these men that KGV became one of the leading schools in the North West.

My first meeting with him was in 1934 when as a new boy I was taught mathematics by him. This continued right through my first five years at KGV. To say that his work was thorough would be a gross understatement. He was a hard but fair task master. Our relationship was continued when he took over as Housemaster of Leech's. We had many disagreements during this period, but he bore my outbursts with a forebearance which, on reflection, was ill-deserved.

Maths was not his only interest. For many years he ran the Chess Club and refereed many 1st XV games. It was only when I joined the staff that I was to learn of his escapades as a motor-cyclist. He became Head of Mathematics on the retirement of "Joe" Mayne and worked tirelessly to uphold and to raise the standards of the department. In addition he was responsible for the organisation of all internal and external examinations. Needless to say there were no mistakes made.

Alan was a creature of habit, always arriving at the same time, occupying the same chair in the Staff room, doing the Guardian crossword each lunch-time. He appeared ageless and never seemed to change during the thirty years that I knew him. I suppose the lasting impression of him that we all have is of a dark clad figure, gown slipping off one shoulder, a case in his left hand, striding purposefully to his next class.
